CYRIL KONGO X HERMÈS

In 2011, the illustrious Hermès house made an unprecedented bet in the history of the brand. Because indeed it gave carte blanche to Cyril Kongo contemporary artist from the graffiti art world to create the autumn-winter collection. However, the encounter between these two worlds at the antipodes unfolded quite incongruously. A year before Kongo was painting in the streets of Hong Kong during an international graffiti festival, when a man on a walk with his son stopped and marveled at the performance of the artist. The father then asked the artist if it would be possible for him to paint on the cap of his son, to thank him he paid him a beer. In a few minutes this fortuitous meeting turned into a great adventure when this man asked Kongo whether to paint the iconic square silk Hermes could interest him. It is at the end of this hazardous situation that an object of exemption is born. An object that materializes the plurality of the Parisian identity through the union of the demanding craftsmanship, luxury and prestige world with the urban, alternative, protest art.
